Quitting my sports photography??

A lot of people have been asking why I'm not doing as much sport photography these days and attending fewer events. Well, there are a few reasons behind that.

The main thing is, I'm crazy busy with commercial photography right now. It's taking up most of my weekdays, and sometimes I don't even get a single day off in a week. It's just non-stop!

On top of that, I've been wanting to explore other areas of photography and take on new challenges. I still love sports photography, but I think it's important to try out different things and grow as a photographer.

Meet Karen...

Some of you may already be acquainted with Karen, but for those who haven't had the pleasure yet, allow me to introduce her.

I am incredibly grateful for Karen's unwavering support, which has been vital to the success and growth of my business. Without her, I wouldn't be where I am today, and I can't thank her enough for her dedication.

Now, let me share some exciting news with all of you. During our recent getaway in Knutsford, the place we used to call home, Karen surprised me with a heartfelt proposal of marriage. I am thrilled to announce that I wholeheartedly accepted!

Highlights Last Month

May and June are hands down the busiest months for me. It's like everything happens all at once!

First off, my commercial photography gigs have skyrocketed during this time. It feels like everyone suddenly wants to get their projects done, and I'm running around like a mad person trying to capture it all.

But that's not all. These months are also packed with some of the biggest and most exciting sport events. Let me tell you, it's been an absolute blast working on the Fred Whitton Challenge alongside the incredible team led by Steve Fleming.

I hope I was able to bring some extra encouragement to the participants as they conquered the challenging Newlands climb on a beautiful sunny day.

Oh, and speaking of events, I covered a few spots during the Keswick Mountain Festival as well. It was a bit different this time due to the event cancellation, but the running challenges were still on, and I captured some awesome moments.

I can't express enough gratitude to Paul Mitchell for having faith in me and inviting me to be part of his team.

And finally, I had the wonderful opportunity to engage in volunteering talks for schools, supporting the Centre for Leadership Performance in Cumbria.

During these sessions, the aim was to inspire the children and encourage them to aspire to greatness. I wanted them to realise the vast array of opportunities that await them and to start thinking about the skills they might need to pursue their dreams. It's all about encouraging the children of West Cumbria to Dream BIG!

It was a truly rewarding experience to see the enthusiasm and curiosity in the children's eyes.

This Month

It's going to be an exhilarating experience like no other. Mark your calendars for the 10th and 11th because this is one event you won't want to skip!

Keep SMILING everytime you see a camera!

In addition to the exciting events lined up, I wanted to share some updates on the ongoing work that I'm involved in. Twice a week, I have the pleasure of collaborating with Peter in his studio, where we continue to create incredible art together. The creative energy and collaboration between us is truly something special, and I'm grateful for the opportunity to work alongside such a talented individual.

Moreover, I've been fortunate to be a part of Platinum Live Ltd., where we visit various clients, offering our expertise and support. It's been an incredible journey, working with diverse clients and helping bring their visions to life. Each project brings new challenges, allowing me to grow as a professional and expand my horizons.

Here's to the continuous growth, creativity, and success that lies ahead!
